

Actually, my name's not Mat...

Posted by John Bowdler - 05 Jan 2012 07:31

..., it's John. Still, thanks for the sentiment. ☺

Freelance proofreader and copy-editor, loving the freedom and getting paid to do my hobby - that's me!

I've done Successful Editorial Freelancing and Basic Proofreading, both excellent.

I've travelled a bit (mainly teaching EFL) - in Europe, East Asia and America – and lived in Hong Kong, India and Estonia. My fave raves are Cosmology, Theology and Philosophy.

I love playing (working) with computers (myMac) and occasionally tear myself away to go mountain-biking in the muddy glades of Kent.

=====

Re: Actually, my name's not Mat...

Posted by PeterMcKay - 05 Jan 2012 08:46

☺
Hi John and welcome. Very droll. Good hear hear that you got some thing out of those two courses. I hope the work is flowing. I expect there is a lot of mud just now, to enjoy on the byways of Kent on your bike. Thanks for dropping in. Peter

=====

Re: Actually, my name's not Mat...

Posted by John Bowdler - 05 Jan 2012 09:10

Many thanks, Peter.

It's the washing the mud off that I don't like!

Best regards,

John.

=====

Re: Actually, my name's not Mat...

Posted by miranda-bethell - 12 Mar 2012 11:49

Hello John,

I wondered who Mat was too. Well-spotted! I have just finished my copy-editing course here. 'Successful Editorial Freelancing' sounds as though it might be a good idea.

Miranda Bethell

=====

Re: Actually, my name's not Mat...

Posted by John Bowdler - 12 Mar 2012 12:18

Hi Miranda,

Yes, 'Successful Editorial Freelancing' was very helpful - especially when it comes to negotiating and chasing payments. I think those are my weak points!

John

=====